THE BASIL'S MEMOIR

'I was a tiny seed when they planted me. And in few days *boink* *boink* my roots and shoot just came out. Outside this dark soil was a bright beautiful world. Cool breeze, warm sun and hundreds of other plants that looked like me. I was growing rapidly. There are few giants here, who at first, looked scary, but are actually very sweet, they take care of me. Oh, and they keep calling me as 'Basil', nice name right?

Mumma said they'll take me when I am big enough and that day finally came. The sweet giants (got to know they are called chefs) took me and my friends with them. I was in their basket and it was the first time I left the garden. They carefully plucked me and gave me a good bath, rinsed me- oh haha it was ticklish. We were then assigned roles, some will become pesto, some will go in basil butter and some, like me, oh hi there, look down I am on your pizza!
